

A thrilling evening

Around fifty people turned out to attend an evening at Waterstones, Tunbridge Wells for the launch of Alison Morton's book – INCEPTIO, an alternate history thriller.

Writer and broadcaster Sue Cook introduced the Tunbridge Wells-born and raised author.

CLr John Smith and Mrs Rebecca Smith, the Mayor and Mayoress of Tunbridge Wells, were also in attendance.

Waterstones sold out of copies of the book on the night but has re-ordered more.

INCEPTIO is one of a series of novels planned by the author.

Further information can be found at <http://alison-morton.com>

Alison with Sue Cook

People turn out to support Alison

Alison Morton with fellow local author, and businesswoman, Denise Barnes

Sue Cook

Alison with the mayor, Cllr John Smith, and mayoress, Rebecca

Sue Cook and her husband, film director Ian Sharp

Alison conversing with Dolina Hendry, of Lioness Recruitment