JENNY GUCCI'S STORY

MARY HARBOE

Key selling points

- Gucci Wars exposes the reality of life at the heart of the world's most iconic fashion house.
- Written by award-winning journalist Mary Harboe.
- "Mary Harboe has done a superb job of turning (Jenny's) story into something resembling a glossy Eighties bonkbuster." – The Daily Mail

About the book

Behind the iconic Gucci name lies a family torn apart by betrayal, jealousy, greed and even murder. Jenny was an operatic student in Florence when she first caught the eye of fashion designer Paolo Gucci – grandson of the founder of the world's biggest fashion house. For ten years, as Mrs Gucci, she was blissfully happy living the life of ultimate luxury. However, she quickly learned that such privilege comes at a price.

Against the backdrop of boardroom rivalry and infighting, a dark side of Paolo's character emerged and Jenny's world turned upside down. When she took the unprecedented step of asking for a divorce, her husband swore to make her, and their daughter, homeless and penniless. No-one could have foreseen the lengths he was prepared to go in order to carry out his threat. Jenny has survived countless struggles and shocking trauma to emerge as a strong, independent woman. Her story will leave you breathless.

About the author

Mary Harboe began her career in journalism as a reporter on a local newspaper in her native Norfolk. She later retrained as a Celebrant, creating bespoke ceremonies, including weddings, funerals and naming celebrations.
